To Mrs. Mary E. Tennant.

Why do you ask what makes me weep
When the tears are flowing downward
They've laid my darling down to sleep
I never shall see her any more.

Sometimes I think my heart will break
Sometimes I think that I shall die
I pray to God my life to take
And often I sit down and cry.

I never shall forget the day
When last I kissed and called her mine
But now alas! she's gone away
To Heaven above—a star to shine.

The bitter, bitter, burning tears
Flow downward freely from my eyes
Death realized my dearest fears
And stole away my choicest prize.

My life is loneliness and sorrow
And has been ever since the day
That death came early in the morn
And took my heart's own love away.

But soon I shall be done with earth
And then to Heaven I hope to go
For what was sad existence worth
Without my heart's own love below.

Intense in pain, but can't forget
The darling object of my heart
Her image lingers in my soul
From that I think I never can part.

My life it seems to me is vain
For what have I to live for now?
What should give pleasure, give me pain
And care is settling on my brow.

NOTES FROM CORRESPONDENTS.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.
[From our Regular Correspondent.]

The amount of talk that has been indulged in over the army bill in House and Senate is something really enormous, as anyone will be prepared to certify who has seen the Congressional Record every day for three weeks past.

Strenuous efforts have been made of every degree and quality have been thrown as freely as the waters of a great flood, but the patient listener or reader, who knew long ago how every vote would be cast, the thing has grown monotonous. It was a brother of that eminent jurist in the Senate from Vermont, who, sitting as judge in a case afflicted with long-winded counsel, rose and said: "When you gentlemen get through with your speeches, you will find my decision in the drawer. The Court is going to dinner."

The closing aspect of this discussion in the Senate reminds one of this monotonous speech, but he soars beyond the ordinary, and says: "I am exceedingly able; but when they go over the precise grounds so exhaustively canvassed in the House, it is hard to avoid the conviction that it would be just as well to cut it short. Judge Davis came near reviving the interest of daily listeners than any other Senator this week. His short speech was a surprise to the Republicans, who had been led to believe that he would occupy half-way ground and advocate a compromise. It is said that, when he was as any Democrat in fact, he was the object of great interest in fact, but he was not so much as he was expected to be, and in ridiculing the absurd cry of revolution. Mr. Blaine, apparently anticipating at least a comb of comfort from the Judge took his seat immediately in front of the latter, and looked right up into his face. When in the course of his speech, after having expounded sectional strife, Judge Davis said that sound policy dictated peace and good will between the sections, and that none but those who put party above patriotism, and who were speaking to do harm, opened up the past, he stopped for an instant and looked squarely and very suggestively down into Mr. Blaine's face.

Probably no man living has a better warrant to speak for Abraham Lincoln than Judge Davis, and there isn't a particle of doubt that the declaration made by him that if Mr. Lincoln were alive, he would heartily favor the repeal of such war measures as authorized the interference of the army, or any other Federal authority, with elections, is absolutely true. The ranting of black Jack Logan in taking exceptions to what he said, convinced Judge Davis, very much, and he made no effort to conceal it. He tried to avoid any discussion with Logan, and even went so far as to ignore him for a time, but the latter made himself so obnoxious that the Judge was obliged to shut him up. He objected to Mr. Davis' assertion that there was peace in all the land, and that the laws were obeyed alike North and South. To controvert this he read from the last report of the Revenue Commissioner figures showing that the revenue officials were more energetic in hunting out frauds in the South. John A. Logan ought to be the last man to talk about violations of the internal revenue laws. He owes his present position in the Senate to the fact that, during Grant's term, he could jerk a whiskey thief out from under a charge, indictment or sentence, quicker than all the lawyers in all the States of the Union. He knows very well, too, that the Government was defrauded out of more money in Illinois during the eight years of Grant's presidency and his Senatorship, than in all the southern States put together.

All talk of a short session has vanished, and the flood-gates of general legislation were thrown wide open last Monday, when nearly four hundred bills—1,385, to be exact—were introduced. The Republican members, who had made such a pretense of opposition to general legislation, were as anxious as Democrats to get a measure, and introduced about half of the total number. Their leaders, Garfield and Frye, took a willing hand in the exercise, and got in half the bunch. Mr. Thomas Turner, of Kentucky, was the champion introducer of the day. He got in forty-five, and didn't seem at all fatigued. Other members put in as many as 25 and 30 apiece. Of the whole number of bills, 750 were for relief, in one shape or another, either for private individuals for whole communities, or for the distressed country. Very few were claims were offered, but on the other hand, several propositions to cut off such legislation were presented. About 90 per cent. of the bills introduced were before the last Congress, and had either been defeated or failed of action. There were 175 financial measures in the number, and about 25 or 30 proposing changes in the revenue laws, especially as they relate to tobacco and liquors. The tobacco dealers, I understand, are working to get a measure giving a rebate of eight cents per pound to dealers on all stock on hand May 1, in consequence of a reduction of the tax. It seems hardly probable that such a bill can pass.

The present attitude of the Republicans in Congress is that of general cynicism. They have decided in earnest that, while they are not able, in the present condition of things, to do much on their own account, they will at least worry the Democrats as much as possible by factions opposition to everything. They are, therefore, pursuing the policy of general obstruction. The strange part of it all is that they should under those circumstances, introduce such a lot of bills. Mr. Garfield submitted one authorizing the Secretary of war to issue tents, blankets, etc., to the destitute negro emigrants who have left the South, and appropriating money to pay for such as may be used. Next to Senator Windom, Mr. Garfield has been as active as any other man in encouraging the negro exodus, and he has made bad professions about the liberality that would be displayed by Republicans in providing means to take care of the deluded darkies. Now that the time for the subscription has arrived, he, of course, falls back on the Government. This is a characteristic trait of Radical statesmen.

TEXAS TITLE.

WAXAHACHE, April 21.
Editor Herald:

In your issue of March 26, 1879, I find a communication from San Saba, Texas, dated March 2, over the signature of W. H., in which the writer criticizes an article of mine, and published in your issue of January 22, 1879. One would be led to think from his article that he was well posted in relation to Ellis county. But what are the facts? W. H. did come to Texas and stopped for some six months in Ellis and Johnson counties, but finding out that fortunes did not grow on the trees, waiting for him to pick them off, but that he had to work for it here as well as anywhere else, became dissatisfied and ramblod off to Llano county and stayed one year, and then by the aid of his father-in-law, who had made money by making a crop in this county, he finally got to San Saba, and now quietly sits down and abuses the best that carried him there.

Now one word as to Ellis county. It lies in what is known as the wheat belt of Texas. It was organized in 1850—has an area of a fraction over 900 square miles. The soil is generally of a black waxy nature, the eastern portion of the county sandy soil. There is about 123,000 acres in cultivation. Divided as follows: wheat 30,000 acres, cotton 32,000, corn 28,000 acres, 15,000 other productions 8,000 acres. The black land, which is on a limestone foundation, is from 3 to 15 feet in depth, and is inexhaustible. Land in this county has been in constant cultivation since 1845, and never manured at all this past year, produces 50 bushels of corn to the acre. Maize for farms is never thought of, or needed here. The yield of wheat is from 15 to 35 bushels per acre, corn 35 to 40, cotton from 1 to 1 1/2, 100 bushels, millet from 2 to 3 bushels, and Irish potatoes grow in abundance, vegetables of all kinds do well, and peaches, pears, plums, and grapes do finely.

This county is mostly prairie, but a sufficiency of timber is furnished by the numerous creeks that run through it, with the timber on Trinity river for all needful purposes.

The county is well watered. It has a great many fine springs and good and lasting water can be obtained in every section of the county by digging from 15 to 30 feet.

The Central Railroad runs through the eastern portion of the county—some 12 miles from our county line, Waxahache, and in two months from now, we will have the tap completed from the Central Railroad to Waxahache, which will give plenty of transportation.

Ellis county has a voting population of 3,700. The county is well supplied with churches and school houses. It has fine country buildings, built of rock, fire proof, and she is out of debt, and has some $12,000 in her treasury. Taxes this year is 60 cents, State, and twelve and a half cents county tax, on the $100.

In conclusion, I would say to your readers, that if they think that sedge grass grows on our rich prairie land, to come and see for themselves, and they will find out that W. H., in writing the article referred to, drew extremely on his imagination.

Yours respectfully,
F. J. R. DAVENPORT.

MORGANTOWN ITEMS.

MORGANTOWN, April 25th.
Editor Herald:

The young ladies of this place, are proposing to organize a society, to be known as the "Anti-Bell Nose Society"; the object of which is mutual protection against the attentions of all young men, who carry flat-bottles in their side pockets, or whose breath is fragrant with aromatics; or who are under the necessity of chalking their noses before going to church on Sunday. This is a most temperate movement. It is only a modest expression of taste and privilege—a word to the wise is sufficient.

The Greenback-Granger party met in convention on the 14th inst., and nominated Mr. James H. Guffy for the Legislature. Mr. Guffy, the nominee, is a brother of Judge R. L. D. Guffy, and well qualified in every respect to represent the interest of this county, and Elmwood in the next general assembly. It now appears that we will have three candidates for the honor of representing us. Mr. John Jones, Democrat, Jeff Belcher, Republican, Mr. Jas H. Guffy, Greenbacker. So we will have a sort of three-corner-one-half Diamond—canvass this time. They are all good men, and all farmers, and all doing well. Their sense of duty is very great, or they would not be willing to sacrifice the interests of home, for the doubtful honors of a short stay at the Capital.

A letter was received this evening, by the Rev. Mr. Finley, of this place, from Rev. Dr. Duggins, of Unionville, Tenn. Announcing the death of Rev. George Jones, of Ohio County, Ky. Uncle George was one of the oldest preachers in the Methodist Protestant church, having attended every annual Conference since its organization, except one. He had reached the mature age of 83 years. But his days are numbered—his work done—his reward earned. We knew him well. We loved him much.

Mr. L. Ward, one of our promising young men of Butler, was retained, as counsel in the case of the U. S. Government vs. the Burns Bros. charged with violations of the whiskey laws. He will conduct the defense.

The Rev. Cyrus A. Hampton, of Madeline, Minnesota, is visiting the home, and friends, of his childhood, in this county. Mr. Hampton was born in the "Big Bend" of Green River, in July, 1843. In July, 1852, when he was just nine years old, his father, and two brothers, died of cholera. A few months afterward his mother died, after which, he found a home with his older sister, Miss R. A. Read, as Miss Read had no children, and as he was her only brother, he soon became the object of the very highest degree of affection and tender solicitude on the part of Mrs. and Mr. Read. No pains were spared in his education, they soon found it necessary to seek better educational facilities, than this portion of Kentucky, offered at that time. Mr. Hampton, joined the minister of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, very naturally influenced him to attend a College of that church. At that time, Waynesburg College in Pennsylvania, was considered the best school under the direction of that denomination, consequently he went to Waynesburg and graduated high up, in the class of 1866. While at College he professed religion, and as a matter-in-course, joined the C. P. church, and shortly after was licensed to preach, and assigned to do work as a missionary on the west part of the church in the Northern part of the State of Iowa. In the mean time, he had married a lady in Pennsylvania, who was also a graduate of Waynesburg, and a member of the same church as himself. After laboring for some two years at his past in Iowa, his friends in Kentucky, were very much astonished to learn that he had changed his church relation. That notwithstanding the wise advice of Solomon, to train up a child in the way it should go, he had actually severed his connection with the C. P. church, and joined the Congregational, in which church he has filled very important pulpits for 4 or 5 years, was pastor of one of their churches in the city of Minneapolis. Now in the vigor of manhood, he visits the scenes of early life, and by the influence of his example, says to the poor young men of Butler county, take courage, be something, make yourselves useful, wake up! go to work, and be men.

Our man for Treasurer of State is Honorable J. W. Tate; He'll get there too, in spite of fate, While R. P. Stoll will be too late.

Our candidate for Lieutenant Governor, Cantrell, softer, sweeter, more melodious and in a strain that will suit the great masses of Kentucky voters better than that bird from Robertson county.

JOHN A. BENNETT, Esq., publicly accepted the nomination of the Green, back party, at the Courthouse, last Monday, and announced his intention of running the race through for the Legislature.

By the time the present State canvass closes, W. O. Bradley, of Garrard county, will conclude that the Democratic candidate for Attorney General, is a hard-in to handle, in a race before the people.

The Republicans will make the best possible show in the State canvass, but our candidate from Hardin county will Hewitt right through to the Auditor's office, and when he gets there he will make one of the best Auditors the State has ever had.

As we expected, the President vetoed the Army Appropriation Bill passed by both Houses of Congress. He has now placed himself squarely in favor of military interference at the polls, and on that issue, the Democrats can afford to make a contest.

The Democratic State Convention entertained fears that our fellow-citizen, Prof. Malcolm McIntyre, would make a raid on the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction, so they placed a true, tried and faithful Pickett on guard, to keep him out. Guess he'll do it, too.

OUR Luke will not give up the gun, but will shoot hot shot into the Republican ranks in the way of telling the people of their misdeeds, partisan legislation and extravagant expenditures, and on the first Monday in August, 1879 he will shoot into the Governor's office by the largest majority ever given any man for that position.

Ohio county was represented in the recent State Democratic Convention, by Hon. H. D. McHenry, Hon. E. D. Walker, Judge W. F. Gregory, Hon. S. E. Hill, Dr. B. N. Patterson, Prof. W. B. Hayward, I. P. Barnard and John P. Barrett. The instructions given the delegates by the Democrats in county convention, were strictly observed.

The Republicans during thirteen years of their control of Congress, passed 388 measures attached as riders on appropriation bills, but now that the Democrats pass a single bill in that way, it is high treason, rebellion, and fearfully wrong. The very bill sought to be repealed, was passed in the very way the repeal passed last week, and yet the ebullient President must veto it.

There are about 90,000 Republican voters in Kentucky. Of this number about 60,000 are colored. More than half of the rank and file of the party, the unfeeling workers and voters, are negroes—yet they have no representation whatever on the ticket for State offices. The Republicans are always raising a howl about the injustice of Democrats to negroes, still when it comes to dealing out the honors and emoluments in their party the poor "man and brother" is never given a snuff.—[New Era.]

The Democrats are going to fight it out on the repeal of the soldiers-at-the-polls-law, it takes all Summer. They offered last Monday, the following separate and independent bill:

A BILL TO PREVENT MILITARY INTERFERENCE AT THE POLLS.

WHEREAS, The use of troops at the polls is contrary to the spirit of our institutions and traditions of our people; therefore,

Be it enacted, That so much of sections 2,002 and 5,528 and so much of all other laws and parts of laws as authorize or allow the use of arms or navy of the United States at the place where any general or special election is being held, be and the same are hereby repealed.

There is a provision in the bill, that is not to be construed to interfere with the law of 1795, which gives the machinery for carrying out the provision of the Constitution whereby the President is to respond with troops to suppress domestic violence in the States.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Ladd, of Maine, who has been counted as one of the Greenbackers. The caucus determined that debate should be resisted, and the bill quickly sent to the President. It is so drawn as to leave the President no excuse, so far as his message indicates, for refusing his signature.

MORGANTOWN, April 30.

Editor Herald: Misses L. J. Smith, W. A. Helm, P. G. Whitaker and T. J. Baugh, left on the boat, last evening for Louisville, to participate in the routine exercises of making Dr. L. P. Blackburn governor of Kentucky. As there will probably be some balloting to do, between the aspirants for other offices, the convention may become interesting nevertheless.

We are having quite a revival of religious interest in our place,—quite a number of the Sabbath School attendants, have professed a saving faith in Christ. The Sabbath School seems to be the ante-chamber to the church in these days, more than it did, not many years ago.

The mud-dog, fever (or foolishness) is prevailing here with every body, no body bitten yet.

The Rev. Cyrus Alexander Hamilton, A. M. D. D., (there is nothing in a name, a rose will smell just as sweet &c.) of Madelia Minnesota; preached to a crowded house in this place on last Sabbath, at 3 o'clock, P. M. His text was the 21st, 22nd and 23rd verses of the 17th chapter, of St. John's gospel—the theme—or great central thought in his sermon was "Christian Unity." He showed that the oneness prayed for by the Savior was not uniformity of church polity or externals but the true unity for which he prayed, and for which His Disciples should never cease to pray, is a unity of spirit in the strongest bonds of Christ-like charity. He quickly conducted the minds of his hearers, up from the narrow teaching of sectarianism into the higher and purer atmosphere of infinite love. He pointed to Christ as the great pattern, whose holy example we should endeavor, in some degree, at least, to imitate.

Although Mr. Hamilton was born and reared in this community, he is the first preacher of the Congregational denomination, that was ever heard in this county, or perhaps by any of his audience. His stay with us was short, but he leaves behind him impressions that time will only brighten, and make more sacred. The earnest, and devout prayers, and best wishes, of many, who were almost strangers to him, will follow him to his home in the far west.

BEAVER DAM, May 6.

Dr. J. S. Coleman delivered on yesterday, the finest discourse ever delivered at this place, and those who have heard the finest talent in this and other States, say his sermon yesterday excelled anything they have ever heard. He preached from the same passage of scripture that he did just one quarter of a century ago, Matt. 5th chapter and 4th verse. Owing to the inclement weather there was not as many there by half as would have been, had the morning been favorable. The house however, was almost full. I never in my life saw a more quiet attentive, and spell-bound audience. The people could not keep their eyes off him and seemed as if they could have listened to him for hours without being the least wearied. It is our intention to have him preach once a month, during the Summer if he will. Nothing could afford the community more pleasure than have him do so. If I could have taken his entire sermon down and give it to you for publication, your many readers would have enjoyed the perusal of it.

Messrs M. F. Hines and M. T. Barnard, returned from a trip to the Mammoth Cave. They report a gay time and were pleased as well as surprised at the wonders they saw. An unfortunate accident befell Mr. Hines. While in Bowling Green, he left his valise in his room when he went out, and on his return found the valise cut open and all his money, $208, gone. He found no clue to the robbery but hopes the officers will.

Mr. M. Stanley, of Crosswell Mines, was in town Sunday. He reports his mines in fine condition and has good coal.

The heavy rains of Saturday and Sunday was of great benefit to everything, as the ground had become very dry.

Miss Verda Gentry is quite ill with a fever. She has not been able to touch school for two weeks, and may not be able to complete the term.

Sickness has somewhat abated during the last week.

GREENVILLE KY., April 30

Editor Herald: Our Circuit Court, Judge R. S. Bolling, presiding convened on 21st. Commons wealth Attorney, Walker, did not put in an appearance on the first day, and his Honor appointed J. C. Thompson, Esq., a member of our bar, as pro tem.

The Grand Jury was duly empaneled and the Judge gave them, (as he always does,) a lengthy, elaborate and able charge. The Grand Jury was composed of the very best men of the county, in fact, I have never seen one composed of better, (if as good) during the time I have been practicing at this bar. They brought into court 27 indictments, 1 for house-breaking, 12 for deadly weapons, 4 assault and battery, 2 for selling liquor to minors, 3 for breach of peace, 3 for disturbing religious worship.

The Petit Jury was of the better class of citizens. It was the remark of the members of the bar that both juries were exceptionally good, the best that have been chosen for years, if ever there was better, and in proof, more business was dispatched by them, in less time, than was ever done before.

We had a busy term. Most of the prosecutions were continued. Three out of the five trials had, resulted in conviction.

B. S. Gibbs, for carrying concealed weapons, was fined $25 and 10 days imprisonment. Motion for new trial, and continuance till next term. This is a hard case, probably Gibbs technically violated the law, but there seems to be grave doubts. He is of good fame, in bad health—consumptive, and confinement would endanger his life, hence the postponement of his application for new trial.

William, alias Bill Lewis, colored, was given two years at Frankfort, for house-breaking. Was arrested on Friday, before court, indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced within a week. Said "wasn't it?"

Hessa Taylor also went up for two years, for horse stealing. He pled guilty. Evidence was introduced to show he was of weak mind, but not sufficient to convince the jury he was non compos mentis. He is young, but 17 years of age.

John Soiler was tried for setting up a gambling contrivance, (at our Fair last Fall) called a wheel of fortune. The evidence did not convince the jury that the said Soiler "set" the "wheel" up, but only that he gave it a turn or two, and they let him off.

Robert Duval, colored, for "stealing from the person without putting in fear," was the first of the court. The trial lasted two days. As it was somewhat of a novel case, I will give you, in part, the circumstances. At our Fair, last Fall, one E. O. Pace, an ex-slave, was inveigled into a fence-corner near the Fairgrounds, to be shown a "trick," by one Ned Clark, a "colored individual," by which he, said Pace, could make money, and whilst said Clark was showing him "the trick," (which was nothing more than "three-card-monte") Duval came up and offered to bet Pace he could not draw the right card. Pace refused to bet, as he said, but was induced to bet for fun, called out a Sheriff, and whilst he had the bill behind his thumb and finger, either Clark or Duval, one or the other, snatched the bill and ran off with it. There was some proof tending to show Duval was the money.

The jury believed Pace's tale, and sent Duval up for three years, from which he has taken an appeal to the Court of Appeals, and will remain in jail for 60 days, to give time for the record to be filed in said court. There was great interest taken in the trial, and able attorneys employed to prosecute beside the Commonwealth Attorney, Capt. Walker, (who put in an appearance on Wednesday), the firm of Eaves & Evans and W. H. Vest, Jr., assisted the prosecution. The defendant was represented by W. W. Lyle, of Russellville, and your correspondent.

The defense have great hopes of reversing the judgment of conviction. The court did an immense amount of Equity business, worked off a considerable number of actions, take it all in all, there has been more work done than at any court for years. Enough of court business, but few strangers at court, but three visiting attorneys, Darby, of Princeton, Lyles of Russellville and Petre of Elkton.

James Weir and wife, of Owensboro, are visiting his brother, El Weir, Sr., this week.

We had a wedding in town this evening, the high contracting parties were Mr. Joseph Haden, son of Geo. W. Haden, of the Paradise district, and Miss Sue Arnold, daughter of our townsmen, Saml Arnold. Success to our friend Jo.

Weather beautiful, farmers engaged in planting corn, some doing plowing "Garden truck" is growing. In the fruit line, plenty of apples and smaller fruit, but no peaches.

In Memoriam.

May Bennett, consort of Rev. Robert Bennett, of the Louisville Conference, was born April 6th, 1850, died April 19th, 1879, aged 29 years 13 days.

She professed religion early in life, and united with the Baptist church, of which she was a consistent member until called to join the church triumphant.

She was twice married. First to Albert Johnson, in 1869. In less than two years their union was severed by death. January 4th, 1877, she was married to Rev. Robert Bennett. Short has been this union also; for soon disease laid its withering grasp upon her, and after weary months of suffering, she passed to the "land where the inhabitants never sick."

Though her illness was long and severe, it was borne with patience and fortitude. She was a devoted wife, a tender, gentle mother, an obedient daughter.

At the hour of departure, she was able, by grace, to speak words of comfort to her friends, expressing the hope that they would meet in heaven. To her father's family she sent word "not to grieve for her, but meet her in Heaven."

May the choice blessings of the gospel sustain the deeply bereaved husband, and may all the sorrowing ones meet in the sun-bright clime above.

T. J. RANDOLPH.

WHEREAS, It has been evidenced to us, that Rev. R. R. Caldwell did, on the 27th day of April, 1879, come to his death by his own hands on account of indigestion and a chronic form of cerebral spinal meningitis, producing hydrocephalus, and consequently, self-execution; therefore be it Resolved, 1st, That in the death of Brother Caldwell the church has lost a most zealous and effective worker in the advancement of his Master. A warm, pious and exemplary Christian would have been hard to find; his precepts were always fully carried out by his examples, and his counsels always a great comfort to his brethren.

Resolved, 2d, That the community has, by his demise, been deprived of a good and worthy citizen, and that society has lost from her circle one of her brightest jewels, a companion one of her strongest advocates.

Resolved, 3d, That Pelville Masonic Lodge, No. 357, fully realizes and greatly deplores the vacuum created in her body by his death, and earnestly low in willing submission to the ruling of the Grand Master above, and that, in his having been withdrawn from our Lodge to be transplanted in the Grand Lodge above, the sacred spring shall flourish to make his abiding place in our memories.

Resolved, 4th, That we furnish a copy of these resolutions to his bereaved family and also to the Owensboro Messenger, Examiner, and Harrison Herald for publication, and that this Lodge wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

HARTFORD HERALD!

In order to stimulate the Farmers to greater exertions, and induce them to improve the quality of their two great staples, Corn and Tobacco, and at the same time increase the circulation of the HERALD, we offer the following very liberal Premiums, amounting in the aggregate to 150 DOLLARS.

| Second best, | 10 |
| Third best, | 5 |

The samples in each case must be of the growth of 1879, and produced by the person competing, or on his premises.

These premiums are only offered to citizens of Ohio and the adjoining Counties who are now bona-fide paid-up yearly subscribers to the Hartford Herald, or become such before the 1st day of June, 1879, and continue to be such up to the time of the Fair, which will be held some time in November or December, 1879.

Competent and impartial Judges will make the awards.

Remember that all it requires to be a competitor for these premiums, is to be a paid-up subscriber to the HERALD, before the 1st of June, 1879. The Herald is your local paper, and you ought to take it if you have, and it is well worth the subscription price. We gave one hundred and five dollars in premiums in 1877. Subscribe now in time. Don't let this opportunity pass.

The samples that take premiums will be kept by us and placed on exhibition in the Herald Office, all the other samples will be sold at public auction, and the proceeds equally divided between the persons entering them, and placed to their credit on subscriptions to the Herald.

You here have a chance to get a paper worth $2.00 for $1.50, and a chance at $150.00 in Premiums besides. If you were to go to the Agricultural Fairs of the Country and contest for premiums aggregating $150.00, you would be charged an entrance fee of from $15.00 to $22.50, but we charge you nothing. Do not forget that the Herald is the pioneer paper of Ohio County. The only one that ever existed six months, and it is now in its fifth year, and your help to sustain it is returned by helping to bring to notice your staple products, improving their quality, and increasing their market value.

Respectfully,

BARRETT & BRO.

We will supplement the above three first premiums on Tobacco $5, making the first premiums $20 in Gold. RAY & CO., Proprietors Falls City Tobacco Warehouse, Louisville, Ky.

EREMITY is too long to be mistaken about, if we can by any means prevent it. "Sinner, Aaron." "Big-a-little-a-fo-u-ru-Aaron." "Right—next—foot race."

ELIOT TUBBETT, "the learned blacksmith," is dead. He was about seventy years of age.—[Exchange.]

CAN the man, who spelled all the morning for his breakfast but didn't get it, be a good autographist?

AT the head of the list of all tomfoolery in the school-room, we would place the exercise usually termed "parsing." Who ever learned anything by it?

OUR good friend C. M. Kimbley, a student at Lexington, will please accept our thanks for his kind remembrance of us, and our best wishes for his future welfare.

If parents will encourage and teach their children to employ their spare time in reading good books, they will leave them a better legacy than houses and lands.

If you want your children to be cleanly—if you want them to be orderly—if you want them to be simple, and pure, and lovely in manners and character, you must set them the example.

THE social evil, fostered by intemperance and low theatricals, is doing irreparable wrong to the family and society; and yet only here and there does the secular press speak out, and denounce as it should this agent of moral and physical death.

How pitiable is the young woman who can sit and waste the whole day thumping upon a piano and yet knows nothing of the composition of a pie. Such an one is sure to make up of the happiness of any fool who will take her to wife.

"Even since my marriage," said Jones, "I have kept my wife provided with a sewing machine, surrounded by a looking-glass."—"What is the mirror for?"—"O, I told her that whenever she got too lazy to run the machine she could sit and see herself starve."—The brute.

THE American Journal of Education, for April, is received. We are much pleased with it, and are more and more filled with wonder that so many apparently intelligent, wide awake teachers and school officers do not subscribe for and read some good educational periodical.

From conversations with several trustees from various parts of the county, we are convinced that the grade of teachers and teaching was greatly improved in Ohio county, the past winter. There are teachers in this county who would grace any position. Improvement is the watchword. We are constrained, to think that to the efforts of Mr. R. P. Rowe, late commissioner, much credit is due for the improved condition of Ohio county schools. From the intelligence and fine business capacity of our present commissioner, Mr. A. B. Baird, much is to be hoped in the way of further advancement. He has not yet had time, though, to do anything—or, at any rate, not much, having been in office so short a time. Let the teachers think, and the people work in concert with his plans, and we believe that he will make a most efficient officer.

THE teacher should not allow the slightest infraction of law to pass unnoticed. These small offenses, if allowed to pass without remark, will only open the way to greater. They are the little breaks in the dyke, which a man might at first close with his hand, but through which will ultimately rush a flood of waters that will drown a city. Many a school has been ruined by not guarding against these least appearances of evil. Not that a teacher should be tyrannical in the administration of his duties. But to be myslending in the enforcement of reasonable and just laws is not tyranny. The laws of nature are inflexible. There can be no infraction of them, not even the least, that is not followed by the due penalty; yet he is a foolish man who will charge God with tyranny and injustice.

A WOMAN was walking along a street on a windy day, when the rain began to come down. She had an umbrella, but her hands were full of parcels, and it was difficult for her to raise it in that way.

"Let me, madam, let me, please," said a bright-faced boy, taking the umbrella in his hands. The astonished woman looked on with satisfaction, while he managed to raise the rather obstinate umbrella. Then taking out one of those ever-lauded strings which boys carry, he tied all the parcels snugly into one bundle, and politely handed it back to her.

"Thank you very much," she said. "You are very polite to do so much for a stranger."

"Oh, it is no trouble, madam," he said, with a smile; "I like to help people."

But went on their ways with a happy expression on their countenances.—[Western Recorder.]

How To Cure Consumption.

[From an Old Recipe.]
The following recipe for coughs and consumption was first used by the Hon. Ellis H. Schenck, of New York, in 1818, but was never given to the public until about two years ago. Take five pounds of pure white rock candy and dissolve it in a gallon of old rye whiskey—the other the better. The whiskey must be distilled in the old-fashioned way with a copper worm. Always get the pure white rock candy. Colored candies are invariably poisonous. The clear white rock is pure crystallized sugar. Put your five pounds of white rock candy into a gallon of whiskey and set it on your table. Let it remain there until the candy dissolves. A week may go by before it is absorbed by the whiskey. Whenever you pass the demijohn stop and give it a good shaking and have the others in the house do the same. Take a sherry glassful of it every day. On waking in the morning take two-thirds as much on an empty stomach. Carry a flask in your pocket and take a spoonful a half-dozen times a day, whenever you think of it. Your object should be to keep your stomach continually employed in taking up and dissolving matter. The cordial will check cold night-sweats and the patient will secure long and refreshing sleep. All lung fever will disappear. You will feel no more in the chest. The only danger is that you may finally become so enraptured with the elixir that you will find it difficult to drop it when it is no longer necessary for the preservation of your health. Now, as to your diet while feeding on the elixir. You must avoid all vinegar pickles, sour wines, malt drinks and salt provisions of all kinds. Touch fresh pork under no circumstances. Acids and fresh pork promote ulceration and increase the very difficulty you are trying to cure. No coffee should be used, for it fevers the blood and neutralizes the agency of the saccharine matter. Drink black tea. Eat roast beef, rare-broiled steaks, mutton chops well done, toasted bread and all kinds of vegetables. One of the best articles of food is the run-onionette, made exclusively of the yolk of eggs. There is no nourishment in the white of an egg. The object is to enrich the blood. The blood is the great agent to build up weak and dispirited constitutions, and it must be furnished with the necessary materials to reconstruct them. This treatment and diet so enriches it that it is bound to win in the end.

Going Back to the Farm.

The St. Louis Republican says that one good effect of the protracted depression of manufacturing industry and trade that prevails is the direction of attention to farming as a means of livelihood. Just after the war, when inflated prices painted pictures of fortunes in all kinds of city and town vocations, when banking, insurance and the agency business were supposed to yield wealth almost without limit, and when it was believed that fortunes could be made simply by organizing some sort of stock company and putting shares on the market, there was a general flocking of young men from farms to cities and towns, to get rich without labor. But that delusion has ended in bitterness to thousands all over the land, and proved the game of living by one's wits is one that very few can thrive on. We are beginning to realize that farming possesses one pre-eminence—it will yield a living if nothing more, and that is more than can be said of many city pursuits. It is generally esteemed a plodding, unromantic business; but this is offset by its exemption from the harassments and tragic features that too often mark the maintenance of credit and social position in city life. It requires but a small capital to go to farming; there are farms in nearly every county in Missouri that can be bought, either for cash or on credit, at six dollars per acre. These offer a simple solution of the livelihood problem to all who are willing to work, and it is gratifying to find that the fact is beginning to be realized by many who are weary of prolonged idleness in city.

Does Temperance Pay?

In the following significant facts lately submitted by the clerk of the Circuit Court of Edwards county, Illinois, the economy of temperance is strikingly illustrated.

There has not been a licensed saloon in this county for over twenty-five years. During that time our jail has not averaged an occupant a year. This county never sent but one person to the penitentiary, and that man was sent up for killing his wife while drunk on whiskey obtained from a licensed saloon in an adjoining county. We have but very few paupers in our poor house, sometimes only three or four. Our taxes are 32 per cent. lower than they are in adjoining counties where saloons are licensed. Our people are prosperous, peaceable and sober, there being very little drinking except near Grayville, a licensed town of White county, near our border. The different terms of our Circuit Court occupy three or four days each year, and then the dockets are cleared. Our people are so well satisfied with the present state of things that a very large majority of them would bitterly oppose any effort made in favor of license, under any circumstances.

WASHINGTON POST. It is well to familiarize the people with the fact that R. B. Hayes, M. C., voted with his party, in 1872, for an appropriation bill containing legislation expressly designed to strip the President of one or more of his most important prerogatives. And now the Republicans are threatening that the man who thus voted will veto acts of Congress in order to defeat a majority of Congress and the people in their effort to repeal unconstitutional and partisan legislation.

An indiscreet man is worse than an ill-natured one.

A spur in the head is worse than a nail in the heel.
